HEREBY DECLARE:

MULTILATERALISM

1. We reaffirm our commitment to multilateralism as indispensable in enabling States to develop and maintain rules-based and fair global, economic, and social relations among countries and peoples, and for resolving potential conflicts among partners and competitors for global resources, markets, and influence, in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations and International Law.

2. We further reaffirm our commitment to identify relevant strategic policy changes and organisational transformation to enable the ACP Group of States to be a ‘more effective global player’ and utilise all appropriate platforms in the multilateral arena to enhance the visibility and recognition of our Group.

3. We welcome the process to renew and re-energise ACP-EU relations into a strengthened, mutually beneficial political partnership that would facilitate the adoption of common positions and promote multilateralism and a rules-based international order.

4. We affirm the need to preserve and secure the centrality of multilateralism in the functioning of the WTO and call on the 12th WTO Ministerial Conference to be held in Nur Sultan, Kazakhstan in June 2020, to provide meaningful direction to the WTO negotiations for the preservation of the multilateral trading system.

5. We call upon developed countries to desist from unilateral actions, threats of action, and pronouncements that undermine the multilateral trading system.

6. We condemn the use of unilateral and coercive measures such as the illegal sanctions against certain developing countries in particular Sudan, Burundi, and Zimbabwe, with a view to preventing these countries from the exercise of their right to determine their own political, economic and social system; and reject the increased application of the unilateral and extra-territorial laws and measures contrary to international law, such as the “Helms - Burton Act” in the case of notably Cuba and reaffirm our solidarity with the Government and people of these Member States.
GOOD GOVERNANCE, PEACE AND SECURITY

7. We welcome the positive trend in democratisation, governance and political transformation of many ACP States; and reaffirm our commitment to pursue governance and development policies that honour the social contract obligations of our governments for the benefit of our peoples.

8. We commit to the prioritisation of poverty and inequality reduction strategies, the reduction of social, political and economic exclusion, addressing demographic challenges to our national development plans and ensuring a balanced implementation of the SDGs as essential to achieving and sustaining peace and security in ACP States.

9. We reaffirm our steadfast support for the principle of self-determination and respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all ACP States under international law.

10. We applaud the significant developments made since our 8th Summit towards peaceful resolution of threats to territorial integrity through the International Court of Justice, particularly in relation to the ongoing Guyana-Venezuela controversy, Guatemala’s Territorial and Insular Claim on Belize.

11. We urge the United Kingdom to comply with the Advisory Opinion of the International Court of Justice of 25 February 2019, which found that the decolonisation process of Mauritius was not lawfully completed upon its accession to independence in 1968, following the separation of the Chagos Archipelago from Mauritius, and the UN General Assembly Resolution 73/295, which demands that the United Kingdom put an end to its unlawful occupation of the Chagos Archipelago.

12. We welcome other positive developments that have recently brought an end to long periods of political insecurity and instability in some of our States and resolve to ensure the maintenance and bolstering of the newly restored peace in those States. We deplore, however, the emergence or persistence of crises in some of our regions, such as the Sahelo-Saharan area or the Great Lakes region and pledge to take concerted action in collaboration with the UN and relevant regional security mechanisms wherever terrorism, organised crime or violent extremism and radicalisation threaten the sovereignty, authority, and territorial integrity of our States. We therefore invite the ACP Group, in the spirit of solidarity, to support the countries and regions concerned.
13. We strongly condemn the terrorist attacks in ACP countries and regions and express our solidarity with the countries affected. We commend the national and regional efforts made to stabilise the security situation in these countries.

14. We call for strong coordination among ACP States for all actions aimed at combating different transnational crimes, risks, and threats relating to maritime security, and we urge the relevant regional and international organisations to support coastal ACP States, particularly those working towards the development of the blue economy.

15. We are concerned that economic, political and institutional weaknesses leave many countries vulnerable to terrorist penetration, radicalisation and violent extremism. We commit to addressing conflict and poverty, marginalisation, human rights violations, ethnic and religious-based discrimination, and the lack of employment and meaningful opportunities for youth.

16. We reaffirm our full commitment to tackling corruption and money-laundering, the financing of terrorism and related offences, by making them policy priorities supported by appropriate legal instruments and adequate financial, human, and institutional resources. We also call on all our development partners, especially the European Union, to undertake appropriate legislative measures to outlaw the transfer of illicit financial flows from and to ACP States by their financial institutions.

17. We pledge to actively undertake, in collaboration with the international community, concrete actions to ensure peace, security and stability in all our Member States and regional communities. We agree to the exchange of information to improve awareness of terrorist threats and the sharing of good-practices, as well as to provide capacity building to strengthen institutions and mechanisms that prevent, prepare for, and respond to terrorism. In this regard, we agree to strengthen intra-ACP cooperation in the fight against terrorism.

18. We commit to combatting transnational organised crime, piracy, trafficking, especially of human beings, drugs and arms; cyber-crime, money laundering and abuse of crypto currencies that jeopardise stability in our countries, and agree to establish intra-ACP dialogue to address these crimes. We further call on development partners to collaborate and cooperate in supporting capacity-building programmes in these areas.
19. We reaffirm our commitment to mainstreaming gender in our security policies; creating the legal basis for the reduction of impunity for Gender-Based Violence, including the meaningful participation and contribution of women in formulating these policies, especially in times of conflict and political instability; and to the implementation of policies that will provide for the socio-economic reintegration of victims within communities, including psychological support.

ENVIRONMENTAL SUSTAINABILITY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

20. We are committed to the full and effective implementation of the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification (UNCCD) and the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) and its Paris Agreement, taking into account the principle of common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities, in order to ensure that the global temperature rise is kept well below 2°Celsius. We call on all Parties to the UNFCCC to increase efforts to limit the temperature rise even further to 1.5°Celsius; and reaffirm our commitment to maintain the political momentum at Conference of Parties (COP) 25 in Madrid, Spain, in particular, with regard to completing outstanding work needed for the full implementation of the Paris Agreement.

21. We emphasise that the ACP States most vulnerable to economic, social and security impacts of climate-related disasters will need additional financial support, technology transfer and capacity-building for their adaptation and mitigation actions. To this end, we commit to building the capacity of ACP countries and regions to access additional financial resources from the Green Climate Fund, the Adaptation Fund, Global Environment Facility, Special Climate Change Fund, and Least Developed Countries Fund and call for urgent simplification of conditions to access these resources and the establishment.

22. We recognise that the quest to achieve sustainable development in our Member States, has been severely compromised by environmental challenges, arising from droughts, floods and sea level rise, loss of biodiversity, land degradation and desertification, increasing water scarcity, and natural disasters.

23. We commit to working through existing alliances to mainstream the protection of the environment and the fight against climate change and building resilience into all policies, plans, and investments that support sustainable economic growth. We commit to building effective alliances at the international level on environmental issues, with a view to driving global action to contribute to the effective implementation of multilateral environmental agreements.
24. We stress the need to act in solidarity with the concerned countries at the multilateral level, to ensure that the existing maritime boundaries are not affected by the impacts of climate change, and that ACP States are not deprived of rights and access to ocean resources.

25. We agree that the greening of our economies would, inter alia, support poverty eradication, create employment, increase food security, protect the environment and serve as a driver to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals; and recognise the need for this transition to be locally-developed and nationally-owned and to be supported by adequate financial resources, capacity-building, and the development and transfer of technology.

26. We call on our development partners to ensure Carbon Border Taxes are not used as new barriers to trade.

27. We recognise that access to energy, including renewable energy, remains a major challenge impacting our states; and therefore call for support to research and innovation, and development and transfer of technology, in order to improve energy efficiency and promote the use of renewable energy in ACP States.

28. We emphasise our commitment to the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development Goal 14 to conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas, and marine resources for sustainable development. We commit to deeper international cooperation and action to enhance the international ocean governance frameworks to address the increasing human pressure on seas and oceans, such as overfishing, IUU fishing, ocean acidification and pollution, in particular, plastic litter and declining biodiversity, and thereby contribute to a sustainable blue economy.

29. We recognise the security impacts of climate change and environmental degradation, especially the depletion of natural resources. We commit to designing and implementing mitigation and adaptation policies and interventions to reduce potential climate-induced conflicts and violence.
INTRA-ACP COOPERATION - SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

30. We renew our pledge to reform and reposition our Group to more effectively respond to the opportunities and challenges of sustainable development and ensure that the Group is truly transformed and in a manner that expresses in word and deed, commitment to multilateralism, while forging a more dynamic intra-ACP cooperation at continental, regional and local community levels. We commit to confront current and emerging local and global challenges with confidence and determination in the true spirit of “Nguru ya Pamoja”.

31. We call for the urgent establishment of a trans-regional policy framework that will guide the implementation of actions that forge and enhance intra-ACP cooperation. To this end, it would be important to establish a political framework for intra-ACP consultation on the implementation of security actions.

32. We reaffirm our conviction that the financial sustainability of the Group remains a key dimension of a transformed ACP, and we hereby launch the ACP Endowment and Trust Fund as a viable option for mobilising resources for the Secretariat’s core budget and other activities, while stressing the importance of regular contributions by ACP Member States.

33. Further, we urge development partners, private sector and philanthropic organisations, as positive agents for development, to generously contribute to the Endowment and Trust Fund to support our development efforts.

SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

34. We reaffirm our collective commitment to intra-ACP cooperation through the strengthening of our regional institutions, technical cooperation, exchange of best practices and information sharing in areas such as health and education.

35. We commit to achieving universal health coverage (UHC) by ensuring strong, efficient health systems, which can deliver quality services on a broad range of health priorities.

36. We underscore that strategies for our cooperation in education and capacity-building, should continue to address and enhance the interventions that target access to education for all.
37. We reaffirm our commitment to joint action in building innovation and knowledge-based economies, while recognising that education systems for the future should train learners to be innovative and adaptable to the job market, and to pursue continuous learning.

38. We recognise the crucial role of women and girls in fostering the social mobility of their families and the transformation of economies, and commit to the elimination of discriminatory laws and policies, which entrench existing inequalities and widen the gaps in the socio-economic and political development of women and girls in ACP States.

39. We further commit to mainstreaming gender equality in all our policies, including creating opportunities for decent work, equal pay for all, and extensive participation and decision-making in public life.

40. We underscore that youth constitute a unique demographic dividend that can contribute to achieving sustainable development. We recognise the importance of implementing inclusive and effective policies that create opportunities for personal growth and the transformative development of young people to enable the achievement of their aspirations, and commit to ensure that the right of every young person to social, economic, political, and cultural development is respected.

41. We recognise that migration is a natural phenomenon and acknowledge the nexus between migration and development, since migrants contribute positively to labour markets and to the economic growth and human capital development of host countries, including ACP States.

42. We remain deeply concerned about the challenges caused by irregular migration at regional and international levels and are aware that some ACP States are not only countries of origin, but also transit and destination countries. We highly commend ACP States that welcome and host migrants and refugees, and call for increased financial support to these countries.

43. We call on our development partners to join us in addressing the root causes of migration, conscious of the fact that most migration is a consequence of under, unequal, or incomplete development and support member states hosting migrants.
44. We are distressed by the increasing vulnerability of irregular migrants to human trafficking, slavery, prostitution and sexual violence, illegal detention, and torture, and by the many deaths resulting from the routes taken by these migrants. We underscore the fact that the promotion of the structural transformation of ACP countries is critical to ending the exploitation of migrants, so as to create increased remunerative employment and income-earning opportunities, while improving access for regular migrants to employment opportunities in host countries, on the basis of the rights and protection accorded to nationals of the host countries.

45. We welcome the contribution of the Diaspora to the development efforts of our countries and affirm that we will prioritise strategic Diaspora engagement and enhance our support to the Diaspora, by creating enabling legal and administrative processes that will facilitate Diaspora investments in various sectors of our national economies.

46. We reiterate the importance of culture as a catalyst for development and reaffirm our commitment to promoting the development of cultural and creative industries in ACP States. To this end, we agree to incorporate into national and regional development strategies, opportunities for employment in the cultural and creative industries, through the promotion of training, finance, trade and tourism. We call for unhindered access to international markets for our cultural goods and practitioners such as artists.

47. We are deeply concerned about and commit to cooperate in the fight against the illicit trafficking of ACP cultural property. We reiterate our call for the immediate restitution of cultural property to their countries of origin.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

48. We commit to the targeted definition of areas for intra-ACP action grounded in the principles of subsidiarity, complementarity, and proportionality in addressing issues of common concern, in relation to efforts to promote export diversification and structural transformation for sustainable, people-centred growth and development.

49. We recognise the importance of structural economic transformation and industrialisation in achieving the sustainable growth and economic development of our States, and aim to attain higher productivity levels through diversification, technological improvements, and innovation, by focusing on high value-added sectors and enacting policies to absorb the abundant labour in our countries.
50. We reaffirm our commitment to joint efforts to create a sound, competitive, sustainable and diversified economic base in ACP economies, which promotes the role of the public and private sector in the social and economic transformation of ACP Member States, attracts sustainable and inclusive investments, deepens regional integration and promotes the economic empowerment of women, vulnerable and young people, in ways that contribute to the achievement of the SDGs.

51. We underline the central role of the digital economy as a driver for economic diversification, increased productivity, operational efficiency, job creation and growth, and commit to promote the accessibility of information and communication technologies (ICTs) to all our citizens.

52. We reiterate the significance of investing in and transferring new technologies on a concessionary basis – including embracing the fourth industrial revolution – and call for global cooperation and a shared view and response to how technology is reshaping our economic, social, cultural and individual lives.

53. We commit to undertake joint actions with our partners at the international level, to re-balance global value chains in commodity markets, and help commodity-dependent countries to better position themselves within the chain, to ensure that there is transition to high value-added economic activities, enhanced competitiveness and productivity, which could lead to export diversification, structural transformation, and sustainable growth and development.

TRADE MATTERS

54. We remain committed to the World Trade Organization (WTO) as the internationally recognised multilateral institution for governing trade between nations. We stress, therefore, that international trade rules should fully take into account the development status of ACP States by according them appropriate special and differential treatment. We call for the right of ACP States to special and differential treatment to be fully recognised and applied in the design and implementation of preferential trade agreements.
55. We insist on the removal of tariff and non-tariff measures including those related to Sanitary and Phytosanitary Measures (SPS), Technical Barriers to Trade (TBTs) and growing private standards that restrict access of our products to international markets, and stress the need for enhanced dialogue on the design and implementation of measures essential to preserve human, plant, and animal health in ways which minimise barriers to trade.

56. We stress that in our bilateral trade relations with the European Union, Economic Partnership Agreements (EPAs) must be genuine tools for sustainable development that go beyond trade liberalisation, by helping to foster ACP competitiveness, develop regional value chains, address supply-side and trade-related infrastructure constraints, help strengthen regional integration, and play a key role in fostering industrialisation.

57. We call for flexibility in resolving outstanding issues with regard to those ACP countries facing difficulties in concluding Economic Partnership Agreements, and stress the importance of an all-ACP-EU EPA monitoring and evaluation mechanism, under the new ACP-EU partnership agreement.

58. We applaud the establishment of the African Continental Free Trade Area. We recognise that ACP countries would benefit from a Free Trade Area (ACP FTA), which would further promote intra-ACP trade and investments. We therefore call for an assessment of the pre-conditions for negotiating and concluding an all-ACP Free Trade Agreement.

59. We agree to improve intra-ACP trade connectivity and facilitation through e-commerce, in particular, to benefit our countries in remote geographic locations, through maritime connectivity, which is essential for global trade in goods.

60. We reaffirm the need to finalise the creation of an all-ACP trade portal for the dissemination of information about manufactured products, commodities, services, and investment opportunities in ACP States.
DEVELOPMENT FINANCE

61. We subscribe to the principles of the Addis Ababa Action Agenda (AAAA) as the multilateral framework for development finance and emphasise the importance of financing for development as key to the implementation of the 2030 Agenda.

62. We underscore the need for international solidarity, especially through North-South, South-South and Triangular Cooperation, in the mobilisation of additional and predictable concessional resources for the economic transformation of our States;

63. We recognise that Official Development Assistance (ODA) remains an important source and catalyst for development financing for several ACP States, in particular LDCs, LLDCs, SIDS and African States. We commend developed countries that have honoured their commitment to allocate 0.7% of GDP to ODA, of which 50% is intended for LDCs, and urge those that have not done so to take immediate steps to reach this target.

64. We agree to accord the highest priority to strengthening and reforming our tax administrations to be simpler, more balanced and predictable, and based on a broad, diversified, socially responsible, internationally compliant, and progressive tax base.

65. We recognise that the development of our countries requires domestic resource mobilisation from both tax and non-tax sources, including through the minimising of tax evasion and the ensuring that international corporations pay their fair share of taxes in ACP countries, since cooperation in this regard should form part of the support provided by our development partners.

66. We emphasise that the new ACP-EU agreement must preserve the acquis of past agreements, notably development financing through the European Development Fund, by maintaining its predictability, multi-annual commitments, and its management structure comprising the joint institutions and the co-management principles, at the beneficiary levels.
67. We urge all our development partners to prioritise the delivery of ODA as far as possible, through general budget support, in keeping with the national ownership principles, and therefore commit to accord the highest priority to continuing to improve the management of public finances and related institutions, in accordance with international standards, and with the support of the international community.

68. We underscore the importance of the taxation of transnational financial flows, tax transparency and fairness, and fair transfer prices, as well as the fair, balanced, and appropriate taxation of multinational companies, for an equitable accrual of benefits and resources in ACP States. We agree to collectively support and put into place such a framework.

69. We undertake to enhance our fight against capital flight, in particular, the tax evasion schemes of multinational enterprises, money laundering and other forms of illicit financial flows, and call on our international partners to intensify practical cooperation to minimise tax avoidance and ensure that international corporations pay their fair share of taxes in ACP States.

70. We strongly urge the European Union and its Member States, and other relevant international institutions, to carry out inclusive political and technical dialogue with the Organisation of ACP Group regarding cooperation on tax matters, to ensure that the outcome neither prejudices nor harms the development and investment promotion of financial and business sectors of ACP States.

71. We reaffirm our commitment to ensure sustainable public debt management, including timely debt restructuring where warranted, as a fundamental premise in securing resources for financing development. We recognise the need to make debt sustainable in the long-term through cohesive policies geared towards financing, mitigating, restructuring, or appropriately managing debt, and therefore agree to build debt-management and restructuring capacities in our countries.

72. We recognise the importance of remittances and diaspora investments as important sources of financial flows to ACP States, and their contribution to reducing poverty, improving the livelihoods of our people, and safeguarding the balance of payments. We undertake to further promote secure, rapid, and less costly modes of remittances, in both recipient and host countries, by using legal channels and establishing innovative and affordable transfer solutions.
73. We acknowledge that middle-income ACP countries (MICs) and Small Island Developing States (SIDS) continue to face inherent vulnerabilities and challenges to sustainable development. We stress that MICs and SIDS should continue to benefit from ODA and other concessional finance, and call for their concerns to be addressed in agreements to be concluded with international development partners, including in the new ACP-EU partnership agreement.

74. We recognise that SIDS will face significant challenges in accessing concessional financing for development, as outlined in the Addis Ababa Action Agenda, and express concern about the exclusion of many SIDS from concessional financial resources on the basis of their status as middle and high-income countries and the persistent use of per capita GNI as a criterion for determining access eligibility. We therefore call for the establishment of a vulnerability index as a criterion to be used for accessing development finance.

75. We underscore the need to build the resilience of ACP States against external economic shocks, through the provision of support measures, including the necessary investments, which would reduce vulnerability.

FINAL PROVISIONS

76. We agree to meet at our 10th Summit in Angola at a time to be decided by the ACP Council of Ministers, in consultation with the President of the 9th Summit and the authorities of the future host country.

77. We commend the outgoing Secretary General Dr. Patrick Ignatius Gomes from the Caribbean Region for his outstanding visionary leadership of the Group and the manner in which he steered and protected the interests of the Group in the international fora.
78. We instruct the Secretary-General of the ACP Group to forward this Nairobi Declaration to the Secretary-General of the United Nations, the President of the European Council, the President of the European Commission, the President of the European Parliament, Heads of ACP regional integration organisations and international organisations, as well as to the other development partners of the ACP Group of States.
